Course Description:
From Muir Woods to Hollywood and Silicon Valley to the Central Valley, California has been a path breaker that has shaped politics and cultural production. The state’s rich diversity makes it an especially exciting site for studying the relations between divergent social, economic, cultural, political, and ecological forces.

In this course, we will investigate the histories, cultures, and geographies of California through five broad thematics: contagions, extractions, mobilities, enclosures, and liberations. Students will explore relations between power and place through ethnographic, archival, critical, and aesthetic lenses. We will further examine structures of inequality and struggles for political change.

The course fulfills the general education requirement in Ethnicity and Race as well as one upper-division requirement for the minor in the History of Consciousness.

Evaluation (totalling 100 points):
5 Office Hours Attendance
35 Participation
   20 In-Class
   15 Online
30 Assignments
   15 Archival Exploration (Individual)
   15 News Article Analysis and Discussion Facilitation (Group)
30 Reading Responses or Final Paper

Learning Outcomes:
1. Gain a clear understanding of key thematics by reading and discussing weekly materials.
2. Develop greater interpretative reading practices by composing weekly questions or comments on course readings.
3. Acquire familiarity with news analysis and archival research methods through two hands-on assignments.
4. Complete a research paper or reading responses that include critical writing which demonstrates integrative, independent, and critical thinking.

Learning Goals:
1. Engage in class discussions and communicate ideas, demonstrating course preparation.
2. Frame key events, movements, and ideas on a range of subject areas in historical and contemporary contexts.
3. Respond to ideas to demonstrate an introductory understanding of critical historical and cultural understanding.
4. Research using a variety of sources ethically and according to academic citation protocols, and demonstrating familiarity with different research methodologies.
5. Write using an inquiring approach to course content through the use of critical thinking and evidence based reasoning (claim/evidence/analysis) in writing that is clearly communicated.

Assignments:
In this course, we will explore power and place in California both geographically and historically through a series of individual and group assignments. Assignments are organized in the table below with brief descriptions and associated due dates. Assignment requirements are then explained in greater detail below.

In-Class Participation: Students attend class having read as much of the assigned readings as possible and contribute to in-class discussions. Each week, students work towards offering one question, suggestion, comment, or point of confusion per class in order to expect full credit.

Online Participation: Students post one discussion question or remark per week to Canvas. Posts engage a specific passage or section from the reading assigned for that week. Posts for the week are to be posted on Sunday by midnight. Assignment is repeated once each week (4 total posts) beginning the second week of class.

Office Hours Attendance: Students will attend virtual office hours once before the end of Week 4 to discuss ideas for the Archival Exploration assignment and/or Final Paper.

News Article Analysis and Discussion Facilitation: In groups of two to four, students sign up to select a news reading for the class and to help facilitate an in-class discussion. Groups choose a recent article (within the two years) about a place in California from a newspaper or news magazine that deals in some depth with the week’s theme. Students post a link to the news article and a brief analysis by Monday at midnight of the week selected. Groups then help lead an in-class discussion of the reading on the Wednesday of that week.

After identifying an article, students write a brief analysis (1–2 pages) in which they summarize the article and describe why they have chosen it as well as how it relates to one of the course thematics. Groups interpret the problem(s) or issue(s) that the article raises and how it goes about framing these problem(s) or issue(s). Finally, groups evaluate the success of the article in its framing and addressing of its problem(s). This analysis is posted with the link to the news article.

Possible news sources may include: California Digital Newspaper Collection, Los Angeles Times, San Francisco Chronicle, The Sacramento Bee, The Oaklandside, The Fresno Bee, Monterey County Weekly, Point Reyes Light, Alta California, The California Sunday Magazine, or groups may select among hundreds of other California Newspapers available online through our library.

Extra Credit News Posts: Individual students may post to Canvas a link to a newspaper article about California related to one of our course thematics accompanied by one paragraph explaining why the student has selected the news article, how it relates to one or more of our class themes or class readings, and a brief interpretation. Each post is worth 1 point of extra credit. Students may repeat this assignment for up to 4 points of extra credit.

Archival Exploration (due Sunday, July 17 at midnight): Students identify and analyze an object or document that pertains to both California and one of the course thematics. The 2-3 page written analysis will consist of a detailed formal analysis of the object or document as well as an interpretation of its relevance and importance to one of the course themes. Archives appropriate for identifying an object or document include:

- UCSC Library Digital Collections
- UCSC Library Regional History Project
- Calisphere
- Online Archive of California
• Oakland Museum of California Collections
• County and Regional Histories & Atlases: California
• HathiTrust Digital Library
• Internet Archive

Reading Responses: Students are required to submit three weekly reading responses of 2-3 pages that engage with that week’s course material. Reading responses are submitted by email by Sunday at midnight each week (after the relevant class meetings). Reading responses must attempt to draw closely from some course material from that week in order to pursue some argument, specific line of inquiry, concern, question, defense, or critique.

OR

Final Paper (due Sunday, July 24 at midnight): Students are required to submit one 6-8 page research paper, choosing a topic that explores one of the course thematics in consultation with the instructor. Successful final papers demonstrate a critical understanding of and approach to course thematics and must draw on one current news article, one archival text or object, one course reading, and cite one text from outside the course readings. Final papers are submitted by email.

Important Summer Session 1 Remote 2022 Deadlines:
• Add - Thursday, June 23
• Drop - Monday, June 27 (tuition reversed)
• No classes are held in observance of Juneteenth June 20 & Independence Day July 4
• Request “W” Grade - Sunday, July 10 (no tuition reversal)
• Change Grade Option - Sunday, July 17
• Grades Due - Thursday, July 28

Summer is unique. You will not be dropped for non-attendance or non-payment. You must drop yourself. Dropping before the deadline results in a full-tuition reversal/refund. Withdraw posts a W for the grade and full tuition is charged (no refund).

For all dates and deadlines, including ‘change of grade option’ (P/NP) and grades due, here is the summer academic calendar: https://summer.ucsc.edu/studentlife/index.html. For questions about dropping, requesting a W grade for a course, or withdrawing from the summer quarter, email summer@ucsc.edu.

DRC Remote Accommodations:
The Disability Resources Center reduces barriers to inclusion and full participation for students with disabilities by providing support to individually determine reasonable academic accommodations. Operations continue via remote appointments. If you have questions or concerns about exam accommodations or any other disability-related matter, email the DRC Schedulers at drc@ucsc.edu for an appointment.

Academic Dishonesty:
Academic integrity is the cornerstone of a university education. Academic dishonesty diminishes the university as an institution and all members of the university community. It tarnishes the value of a UCSC degree. All members of the UCSC community have an explicit responsibility to foster an environment of trust, honesty, fairness, respect, and responsibility. All members of the university community are expected to present as their original work only that which is truly their own. All members of the community are expected to report observed instances of cheating, plagiarism, and other forms of academic dishonesty in order to ensure that the integrity of scholarship is valued and preserved at UCSC.

In the event a student is found in violation of the UCSC Academic Integrity policy, he or she may face both academic sanctions imposed by the instructor of record and disciplinary sanctions imposed either by the provost of his or her college or the Academic Tribunal convened to hear the case. Violations of the Academic Integrity policy can result in dismissal from the university and a permanent notation on a student’s transcript.

For the full policy and disciplinary procedures on academic dishonesty, students and instructors should refer to the Academic Integrity page at the Division of Undergraduate Education.

Title IX:
The university cherishes the free and open exchange of ideas and enlargement of knowledge. To maintain this freedom and openness requires objectivity, mutual trust, and confidence; it requires the absence of coercion, intimidation, or exploitation. The principal responsibility for maintaining these conditions must rest upon those members of the university community who exercise most authority and leadership: faculty, managers, and supervisors.

The university has therefore instituted a number of measures designed to protect its community from sex discrimination, sexual harassment, sexual violence, and other related prohibited conduct. Information about the Title IX Office, the online reporting link, applicable campus resources, reporting responsibilities, the UC Policy on Sexual Violence and Sexual Harassment, and the UC Santa Cruz Procedures for Reporting and Responding to Reports of Sexual Violence and Sexual Harassment can be found at titleix.ucsc.edu.
Required Texts:
• Digital copies of all course readings and films are available on Canvas and/or online through the UCSC Library’s Course Reserves.
