

June 24- July 24, 2023 (5 weeks)

All Online /Synchronous / Mondays & Wednesdays 1pm-4:30pm / Office Hours: Thursdays 11-12pm

Instructor: Amy Reid (she/they)

Email: amcreid@ucsc.edu

Summary of Course: This is a senior seminar that addresses long-standing ethical dilemmas including filmmaker/participant relationships, ethical ethnographic filmmaking, and conversations regarding the role of social media and new media. This course covers issues such as allyship, privilege, and insider/outsider responsibilities for filmmakers working with topics such as class, the environment, gender, feminism, race and sexuality.

Learning Goals for the Course:

- Identify ethical concerns in documentary filmmaking such as questions of allyship, privilege & power, insider/outsider responsibilities for filmmakers.
- Develop reflexive thinking about our position as documentary filmmakers within the context of race, gender, class, ability, etc. (see note about reflexive thinking on page 7)
- Critically consider the ethical impacts documentary films have in our world, from cultural perceptions to public policies in the United States and globally.
- Be able to summarize the historical trajectory of ethics and documentary from the early 20th century examples to contemporary conversations about ethics and the documentary form.
- Feel comfortable to engage in “messy” conversations in both your writing and peer to peer dialog.
- Develop tools to engage with these above points through writing and close readings of both texts and films.

A bit about me as a filmmaker and person: I am a filmmaker and 5th year PhD Candidate in the Film and Digital Media Department at UCSC. I originally hail from the east coast (Born in CT, grew up in South FL, high school in Baltimore, and undergrad and many years in NYC). I have been living in California since 2014 and went to UCSD for my MFA.

My main interest as a filmmaker is representing women-identifying people, and their relationships to work, US history, and personal identity. I have made a feature-length experimental documentary called Long Haulers (2020) about female truckers and am currently working on another feature experimental documentary film about women, quilting, and US 19th century history called Grandmother's Garden. If you're curious about these projects, I am happy to share more about these projects during office hours or during our discussion hour. I spend years working with the participants in my films, building relationships of trust and collaboration. These projects are also partially filmed on 16mm and video. My written dissertation work explores early feminist documentary film practices in the 1970s in the US and Latin America.

When I am not making films, or being a PhD candidate, I enjoy jumping in the ocean and going for epic adventures with my dog Jolene, and cooking elaborate meals (my dad is a chef, so I have a real love of food because of that!)

Some Things to Know About Me as an Instructor: I care deeply about teaching and filmmaking and want to create an atmosphere where we all feel comfortable to question, explore, and learn about the complicated topics around ethics and documentary film practices. Please see our "Proposed Collective Agreements" for a more detailed breakdown of the dynamics I am hoping we can create together this summer.

As I try to have healthy boundaries in my work and personal life, I follow a 9am-5pm, M-F schedule. This means I won't typically respond to emails before or after that point, and also may take 12-24 hours before responding to an email. I also do not correspond over the weekends.

Office Hours: Thursdays 11-12pm By appointment

(Please note, for the required Office Hour you still must make an appointment)

A note about emails and notifications for this course: Summer courses move quickly, and I may need to communicate with you on short-notice. Please check your email and/or canvas page regularly. Here is a link for video instructions on how to edit your canvas notification settings to be of most use to you.

What are Office Hours?: Though you may think office hours are only for when you might need critical support, this time is really designated to support your overall needs as a student both for this course and at large. Office hours can be a space to talk through some of the complex questions you have about the films we are watching, a time to address an assignment, or a time to talk about post-college questions about the field of Film & Digital Media (both in and out of academia), or even film projects you're working on.

One office hour meeting is required and built into the syllabus of this course.

Link to make an appointment: <https://calendly.com/amcreid/amy-s-office-hours-film-194-h>

Late Work Policy & General Tips to Succeed in this Course: I know the summer session can mean you are taking other courses, doing internships, or maybe working or caring for children and loved ones. School should never come before prioritizing your own physical and mental health. If things come up for you, please let me know. Together we'll find ways to meet your needs and the course's learning outcomes. Also, if you are foreseeing not being able to follow the deadlines for assignments please talk to me before the date something is due. As this is the summer session, there is not much wiggle room for deadlines, and turning in work late will limit the amount of feedback I am able to offer. Unless you reach out to me and we decide on a course of action together, assignments submitted over 1 day late will receive an "incomplete".

Accommodations & DRC: My goal is to create an inclusive classroom environment that facilitates your learning, with respect to class structure, activities, and flexibility regarding course policies. To create such inclusion, I would like to work with you to understand your learning needs and how I might serve you best. Please know that I am here to discuss any concerns or ideas you have about your learning in my course during office hours, via email, or through your coursework.

I also encourage any student with particular needs or anyone seeking disability accommodations to contact the Disability Resource Center: 831-459-2089; or drc@ucsc.edu; <http://drc.ucsc.edu>

Participation & Attendance: Participation can take on a lot of forms for this class including reflections, peer feedback, and group discussions during our synchronous meeting time. In my experience both as a student and instructor, learning occurs when we are able to engage openly and collectively talk through questions and observations we are making of the course material. We also don't learn as much if the same people share in discussion, so I encourage you to step outside of your comfort zone as this space is intended to create questions and not necessarily arrive at "answers."

If you miss more than 2 classes, you will be subject to failure in this course.
If you are late past 15 minutes, this is also counted as absent.****

Academic Integrity: All members of the UCSC community have an explicit responsibility to foster an environment of trust, honesty, fairness, respect, and responsibility. All members of the university community are expected to present work that is original and self-generated. In the event a student is found in violation of the UCSC Academic Integrity policy, he or she may face both academic sanctions imposed either by the Provost of his or her college or by the Academic Tribunal convened to hear the case. Violations of Academic Integrity can result in expulsion from the university and a permanent notation on a student's transcript. More on academic integrity.

* Original & Self-Generated designates that use of Chat GPT for this class, unless assigned in a project, breaches Academic Integrity.

Important Dates

- Add: June 27
- Drop: Monday, July 1 (tuition reversed)
- Holidays: July 4th (observed)
- Request "W" Grade: Sunday, July 14th (no tuition reversal)
- Change Grade Option: Sunday, July 21
- All Work Due: Friday, July 29 (11:59pm)
- Grades Posted: August 3*

Assignments (See Canvas for more details about Due Dates, Descriptions and Specs)

- Weekly Ethical Reflections on Discussion Board (5 total) (10% of total grade)
- Participation* (25% of total grade) (15% weekly attendance/ 10 % see asterisks.)
- Recorded Video Cafe Chat & Post Cafe Writing Reflection (15% of total grade)
- Documentary Project (40% of total grade)
- Required Office Hour Visit and Discussion with Amy (1 time slot) (5%)

Grades: I'm going to be using "spec grading" in which each assignment is going to be graded complete/incomplete/missing based off a set of specifications ("specs") provided for each assignment. These specifications will be outlined in Canvas on the Assignment page. Please note that if you don't follow the specifications, you will get an incomplete which is 50% for the assignment. This way you will be rewarded for work and effort, rather than scored subjectively. If an assignment meets all of the specifications it will receive a "complete" and you'll get a 100% on it; if an assignment is missing specifications outlined it will receive an "incomplete", you'll get a 50% on it; if an assignment is "missing", you'll get a 0%. Unless you reach out to me and we decide on a course of action together, assignments submitted over 1 day late will receive an "incomplete".

At the end of the quarter, final grades will be determined by these scores:

95-100%: A+    90-95%: A    85-90%: B+    80-85%: B    75-80%: C+    70-75%: C
65-70%: D+    60-65%: D    0-60%: F

Time Management: The UCSC Educational Opportunity Programs recommends 3 hours of studying per a week, per unit. That means for a 5 credit course, that's 15 hours a week. Summer courses move twice as quickly (i.e. 30 hours a week). Instead of 30 hours a week, I recommend a study schedule of 19/20 hours a week. If you find you are taking longer, email me and we can work together to find a solution. This is a rough approximation of the various components for the course and a time breakdown:

- Watching Films: 3 hours/ week (including writing notes)
- Reading Texts: 3.5 hours/ week
- Group Discussion Time: 6 hours/ week
- Weekly Ethical Reflections on texts and films: 1.5 hour/ week
- Weekly Assignments (including giving comments on peer's work): 5 hours/ week

* A Note About Participating in this Course: Since this course is online, 15% goes to the weekly meetings/ make up work for those meetings. The other 10% of participation takes on the form of commenting on your classmates Weekly Reflections, the Proposed Collective Agreements, and the Self-Reflexive Guidelines Sheet, Watching a Cafe Chat of your classmates (1), providing constructive feedback on Oral History Assignment amongst other things.

Slug Support Program: College can be a challenging time for students and during times of stress, it is not always easy to find the help you need. Slug Support can give help with everything from basic needs (housing, food, or financial insecurity) to getting the technology you need during remote instruction. To get started with SLUG Support, contact the Dean of Students Office at 831-459-4446 or you can send an email at deanofstudents@ucsc.edu.

Counseling and Psychological Services: Many students at UCSC face personal challenges or have psychological needs that may interfere with their academic progress, social development, or emotional wellbeing. The university offers a variety of confidential services to help you through difficult times, including individual and group counseling, crisis intervention, consultations, online chats, and mental health screenings. These services are provided by staff who welcome all students and embrace a philosophy respectful of clients' cultural and religious backgrounds, and sensitive to differences in race, ability, gender identity and sexual orientation. Visit the Counseling and Psychological Services for more information.

Resource Centers: UCSC has several identity-based resource centers: <https://resourcecenters.ucsc.edu/>. These include the African American Resource and Cultural Center, the American Indian Resource Center, the Asian American/Pacific Islander Resource Center, the Chicanx Latinx Resource Center, the Lionel Cantú Queer Center, and the Women's Center.

Title IX and CARE are available to all of you for support if you experience discrimination in this class. I encourage students experiencing any form of harassment in the context of this course to come either directly to the instructor or to take other appropriate action. Students should abide by the agreed upon Collective Guidelines, which you all will have a chance to edit and add to the first day of class.

What do we mean when we talk about Ethics?

In this course, when I am talking about ethics I mean a set of values that filmmakers and scholars have debated and practiced (or not) in the making of documentary films. This set of values, or you might say principles, have changed and expanded/contracted throughout the decades of filmmaking. As we move through the course together, our own understanding of ethics (I hope) will become more robust and clearer.

What do we mean when we are talking about documentaries?

“Creating reality is an act of power.” - Documentary Accountability Working Group

Filmmaker and scholar Trinh T. Minh-ha has said that there are no documentaries. I think what she means when she says a comment like this, and it is also reflected in a lot of the readings we will be looking at, is that “reality” is subjective. What I film and capture through my own camera is subjective to my experience, and how I understand “reality” even without my camera is informed and shaped by my own race, gender, sexuality, class, ability, and so forth. This is also true for all of the filmmakers we will be studying and for your own role as a filmmaker and burgeoning film scholar.

What is self-reflexive thinking?

The Documentary Accountability Working Group has said that when making a film they ask themselves, “What do I have to know or think about in order to mitigate any harm to the greatest extent possible?”

When I say reflexive-thinking, what I mean is being aware and reflecting on the different modes that filmmakers and writers are or are not addressing ethical dilemmas in their works. This means you are being an active viewer and thinker rather than a passive recipient of information. This might mean, you might be asking yourself: Is the filmmaker considering their identity (race, gender, sexuality, and so forth) in relation to the participant(s) in their films? Furthermore, what insights are you gaining and reflecting on in regards to the type of filmmaker/ film scholar you are aspiring to be?

Since this course is a Summer course, it moves twice as fast. With that in mind, I have a suggestion of how you might want to move through the material in this weekly calendar breakdown.

Please note that due dates for Weekly Reflections and Commenting on Your Peers Reflections are due the Tuesday and Thursday of each week.

Due dates for larger assignments will be posted on Canvas.

- 3) Complete Documentary Project
- 4) Give feedback on one classmate's Documentary Project

Weekly Reflections via Discussion Board on Canvas & Reading and Commenting your Peer's Reflections

Weeks 1-5

Your Own Reflections: 10% of Grade

Commenting on Others Reflections: Part of Participation (20% of Grade)

Due every Tuesday and Thursday of each Week

(Exact Due Dates for each component can be found in Canvas)

As this course is primarily remote, you are required to contribute to weekly reflections on the course readings and films we are dealing with each week. These reflections will take place through written responses, usually at about 250 words. Please note you are required to respond to sometimes multiple films and readings each week, in some cases it might be specific films or texts, so please look at the assignment details in Canvas.

Additionally to your own weekly responses, you are asked to engage with your peer's ideas via comments back to other people's reflections. You are asked to respond to 2 peer's each week, providing thoughtful responses and questions back to your peers. Your comments can reflect multiple angles (perhaps contrasting to your own experience of the film/text) or it might be more of an echoing and deepening of a point your peer brought up in their reflection. Either way, these chats are intended for you to have long-distance and delayed conversations with each other. I encourage you to both repeat threads with the same classmates and also comment on different people each week in order to see the breadth of perspectives we each have. These responses should be roughly a short paragraph (3-5 sentences.)

The primary form of feedback you'll receive on these reflections will be from each other and not from me. Though I may comment on some points, these reflections will not be commented on in the same way your other assignments will be for the course.

Recorded Video Cafe Chat & Post Cafe Writing Reflection (15% of Grade)
Due End of Week 3 (Saturday, July 13th, 11:59pm)

(Exact Due Dates for each component can be found in Canvas)

Video Component

You and your classmate are meeting in a “virtual cafe” (aka Zoom) to have a 5-7 minute conversation about the ethical considerations (or not) of both films from Week 3 in relation to one of the readings from either week 1, 2, or 3.

Prior to meeting you must:

- Decide with your partner on the one text you’ll talk about in relation to both films from week 3.
- Each person has come with a list of questions you’d like to ask one another. (8-10 questions minimum, more if desired)
- Each person writes their own pre chat reflection on your own, individual experience and thoughts on the films and the reading (250 words min)
- Each person chooses one scene and one section/quote/ paragraph from the text you’ve chosen to touch on (this could be in relation to your questions and included in your pre-chat reflection.)
- Consider your own position on the film before you have your “Cafe Chat.”

Then record this conversation and upload it to Canvas.

Post Cafe Writing Reflection (individually done, 250 words min)
Due End of Week 3 (Sunday July 14th, 11:59pm)

After Meeting You are Required to touch on these points:

- What new insights did you and your partner discuss?
- What things felt confusing in general about the film and text?
- Did the film and text offer ethical solutions, create ethical issues, or did it feel somewhere in between? (expand)
- What new questions came up?

Documentary Project / 40% of Grade
Due Weeks 2, 4, and 5

(Exact Due Dates for each component can be found in Canvas)

Assignment Description: As we are learning about the ethical frameworks filmmakers use, or sometimes don't use, this project is a chance for you to create, implement, and reflect on your own ethical frameworks in a documentary based project.

You are being asked to develop a documentary project in relation to a family member, an elder in your community, a neighbor, or someone in your wider social circle, this can be just one person or at maximum 2 people. This person should not be a close friend, and should be outside of your immediate age range (i.e. someone who's not 18-22.)

This project asks you to consider what specific area of a person's life you want to document, which can be through a variety of ways. Your final project can be an edited audio piece, an oral history, a video, or even something like a website, or an interactive photo essay with an edited transcription accompanying. Please see details below for the exact length of each project medium/format.

The specific area you want to highlight about your subject must be considered and drafted prior to beginning for approval. Subject areas might include the profession of the person, a specific experience they've had in relation to their racial, sexual, gender, class, etc, identity, activism work they do, or other specific aspects of their personhood.

As you develop your project, and begin to work with your participant(s), you'll be asked to create a journal that will be handed in at the end with your final project. This journal is intended as a space for you to personally reflect on your own position in relation to your participant, questions you have about how you're representing your participant(s), how you might be inserting your voice and presence in the film, and the other ethical points that are brought up in this course.

You are strongly encouraged to consider how visible or invisible you are in relation to the final project.

Required Points for your Documentary Project.

- A Proposal and timeline for completion of the project (250 words + at least half page of a timeline)
- A journal that documents each interaction you have with your participant. (It is suggested you spend at least 5 visits with your participant, so in theory, you'd have 5 journal entries, max 1 page per entry.)
- A post project reflection (250 words)
- Final Project*

*Required Length for Final Project:

- 1) Audio Piece/ Oral History: 3-5 minutes
- 2) Video / Film: 2.5-5 minutes
- 3) Website (talk with Amy)
- 4) Graphic Novel (talk with Amy)
- 5) Interactive Photo Essay with transcribed interview (talk with Amy)
